

CONTROL OF HUNTERS PLANNED BY COUNCIL

Several Fatalities and Numerous Injuries on First Day of Season May Bring Action From State Conservation Group, Chairman A. F. Moon Avers.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 17.—Aroused by yesterday's hunting fatalities and similar accidents which occur every year, the state conservation council will soon begin consideration of a plan of "hunting control," Chairman A. F. Moon, of Conover, O. declared today.

Methods of limiting the number of hunters allowed on any one farm during the first day of the open season on rabbits and pheasants will be discussed at one of the

By International News Service.

The smoke of shotgun and shell continued to roll over the farm-lands of Ohio today as hunters resumed the annual hunting season "big push" with reinforcements, despite the bloodshed of yesterday's offensive which took four lives and resulted in the maiming and wounding of nearly a score.

The death toll of the first day's hunting warfare were:

Stanley Mazanc, 33, Cleveland, mechanic.

William Langyel, 24, of Lorain.

Kenneth Holmes, 23, of Akron.

Robert Hastings, 18, Hardin-co.

TWIG IS CAUSE

Mazanc was accidentally shot when a gun in the hands of a companion, Julius Gideon, was discharged by a twig which caught the trigger. The explosion of a second-hand shotgun was fatal to Langyel and Holmes died from loss of blood when he was struck in the leg by a discharge from his own weapon.

One hundred pieces of shot were removed from the body of Edward Monk, 41, of Larue, who was injured when a fellow hunter fired at a rabbit.

J. C. Ebersole of Findlay was struck in the chest, arms and legs by shot from the gun of his father-in-law.

At Mt. Vernon, H. B. Pursel was shot in the head and shoulders by a companion, Gilmont Terba, South Amherst, was shot in the right hand. C. Walcott of Barberton, was injured in both legs by two hunters whose identities were not learned.

Clyde L. Sukeforth, first string catcher with the Cincinnati Reds, was shot in the right eye while hunting rabbits near Cincinnati. His home is in Washington, Me.

The discharge of another hunter's gun struck J. G. Mason of Findlay in the head and eye. Michael De Novi of Cleveland was shot in the leg by his own gun in a field near Findlay.

PLOT TO DESTROY BARGES BLASTED

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—A vast plot to destroy river traffic by a wholesale bombing of barges was believed checked today by the arrest of five alleged communists and seizure of a huge quantity of dynamite, sufficient to blow up half of Manhattan.

Instead of carrying out their proposed plan to blow up twenty barges at Port Reading, N. J., police said, the men will be arraigned in Tombs court today.

Six explosions on harbor craft, which, however, occasioned little damage, were laid by authorities to the activities of the quintet.

A double motive, to "destroy capitalist property" and to war on a conservative union, was ascribed to the prisoners by detectives.

Conflicting Reports Are Heard From Nonni; End of Hostilities Seen

DAWES, BRIAND ACT

Reports of Unrest in Polish Ukraine Are Heard

By International News Service

Conflicting reports regarding the situation on the Nonni river battlefield in Manchuria were received today.

Civilian authorities in Tokyo, announced receipt of military dispatches declaring General Ma Chan-Shan, Chinese commander, was preparing to withdraw his troops northward, promising an early end of hostilities.

On the other hand, Japanese military headquarters in Mukden, whose announcements have not always jibed with communiques issued in Tokyo, declared skirmishes along the Nonni river were continuing and that the long-expected Chinese offensive on the Japanese emplacements was about to develop.

General Ma, the Mukden authorities said, has been in the first line of his army since Sunday stirring up the fighting spirit of his men.

LEAGUE STUDYING

At Paris, the League of Nations council held another fruitless secret session, deciding to leave matters pretty much in the hands of Ambassador Dawes, Foreign Minister Briand and Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, hoping private negotiations by these three men would result in discovery of some "tangible" basis for settlement.

Dispatches received in Peiping, reported the bombing of the Fuk-lark health resort near Tientsin by Japanese planes. Other Japanese aircraft, penetrating deep into the Soviet Russian sphere of influence, recoiled over Tientsin and dropped twenty bombs on the city of Elimu.

The Soviet press gave increased prominence to reports of unrest in the Polish Ukraine, reflecting the alarm felt in official circles over the possibility of Russia being drawn into the Manchurian dispute.

Today, the ninth day of his attack of the unusual malady, King appeared to be relieved somewhat, Dr. E. B. Black, his physician, said.

"The improvement is only slight, it is true," Dr. Black said, "but a slight improvement is important in such a case as this."

While King relied upon the musk treatment for cure today, hundreds of suggested remedies for his peculiar ailment continued to pour into his home by letter, telegram and telephone.

CLOTHING CALL MADE

Following the plan that was so successful in 1930, the Circleville Benevolent association has issued a call for clothing. The response last year was generous and the churches did well in receiving clothing from donors and sorting and putting the garments in usable condition. The association asks for the same fine cooperation this year.

The need for clothing is probably greater now than last year because everything is worn out and with the hangover of last winter's debts and the low summer wages, clothing needs could not be supplied in some families. Everyone needs clothes from father and mother to the baby but the most urgent need is among children of school age.

ARTICLES NEEDED

Several articles would be useful. Several pieces of comfort tops begun during the summer cannot be finished for lack of pieces for quilt patches. Several articles would be useful. Several pieces of comfort tops begun during the summer cannot be finished for lack of pieces for quilt patches. Several articles would be useful. Several pieces of comfort tops begun during the summer cannot be finished for lack of pieces for quilt patches.

The association asks everyone to share the extra things in the home and the things the family has grown tired of. Of course, clothing and other articles must be usable. Curtains, dresser covers, bed spreads, curtains and other bright things that are to be discarded would mean much in homes that are limited to bare necessities or even less.

Persons who have articles should give them to the church, or can call the supply chairman of the Benevolent association, Mrs. G. G. Leist or call the social worker, Miss Clara Southward.

SYNDICALISM LAW FACED BY DREISER

Author and Party Indited In Kentucky For Inciting 'Reign of Terror.'

PINEVILLE, Ky., Nov. 17.—Efforts to return Theodore Dreiser and John Dos Passos to Kentucky to undergo trial on charges of criminal syndicalism will be launched without delay, it was announced today by Commonwealth Attorney W. A. Brock.

The prosecutor's declaration followed the indictment at Middleboro yesterday of the two famous writers and eight members of their party who earlier this month came to Kentucky to investigate labor conditions in the state's coal fields.

Brock said he will also take immediate steps to extradite from their respective homes the co-defendants of Dreiser and Dos Passos. These include Marie Pergain, secretary to Dreiser, Charles Rufford Walker, an author, his wife, Mrs. Adelaide Walker, Samuel Ornitz and Celia Kuhn.

PLAINTIFF IN DAMAGE CASE FAINTS TWICE

Mrs. Bessie Courtright Falls Forward in Chair During Court Session

JURY IS OBTAINED

Testimony Begins in $10,000 Damage Trial Here

A mild sensation occurred in the courtroom of Judge Joseph W. Adkins Monday afternoon when Mrs. Bessie Courtright, 54, of the Scioto Trail, north of this city, plaintiff in a $10,000 damage suit against Walter O. Brewer, Chillicothe contractor, fainted twice. In an apparently highly nervous condition, Mrs. Courtright, sitting in a chair beside her attorney Tom A. Renick, fainted and fell forward in her chair.

She was taken into the jury room where Dr. Howard Jones was called. The woman was resuscitated and was being taken into the corridor, then to her home, when she again fainted. She was again given aid and taken to her home.

The case was continued in her absence.

JURY CHOSEN

A jury composed of Mrs. C. O. Leist, F. C. Puffenberger, Albert Turbill, Roy Peck, Grant Sines, Mrs. Mollie Rogers, Carl Binns, Fred W. Glick, Mrs. Isel White, Samuel Metzger, Lyman Riffe and Myrtle Beers, was selected and Tuesday was hearing testimony of the plaintiff's witnesses. Witnesses who have been called to testify Tuesday were Laura Mantle, George Defenbaugh, William Stebleton, Jessie Defenbaugh, Dr. Lloyd Jones and Dr. Howard Jones.

The case was held up until shortly after 10 a. m. Tuesday when Mr. Brewer, the defendant, failed to appear. He is represented by Barton Walters.

The trial is based on a suit brought by Mrs. Courtright charging negligence and reckless driving on the part of Mr. Brewer causing a collision on the Scioto Trail opposite the Courtright residence on April 29, 1930.

It is expected the case will be completed Wednesday or early Thursday.

Hiram Johnson Not Candidate He Declares

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—"Ridiculous! I knew nothing about it."

Senator Hiram Johnson, (R), of California, so disposed today of reports he might be asked to run for Republican nomination for president against his fellow Californian, President Hoover.

His brief comment was expressed with true Johnsonian emphasis as he boarded the overland limited enroute back to Washington.

Even the shouted greeting of a newsboy "there goes the next president of the United States," failed to draw out further the militant Californian senator on the subject.

PURCHASE LUMBER

The board of county commissioners entered into contract with Mason Klingensmith of Ashville for the purchase of 10,000 feet of bridge lumber at $40 per thousand at their meeting Monday.

The lumber will be used for repair work on a number of bridges throughout the county.

PLAN TO WIDEN ROADS IN OHIO

Unemployment Relief Promised By Merrell on Several Macadam Highways.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 17.—Promising unemployment relief which may total a half million dollars, a plan for widening several of the state's macadam roads during the coming winter was launched today by State Highway Director O. W. Merrell.

The winter widening program will be in addition to the $3,000,000 winter bridge building program which was hit upon by Governor George White as one method of supplying extra work for the jobless in every county.

After he and Assistant Highway Director H. F. Chapman had discussed the plan with division engineers, Merrell placed the project in the hands of Grover C. Snyder, chief of the bureau of maintenance and repair.

Police said the man recently was released from the Lima state hospital for the insane where he had been under observation for three months after he was charged with attacking a woman here last March.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 17.—Hurling a rock through the window of a store and fighting off the attack of a police dog, a thief today scooped up jewels valued at $2,000 from the display window of the Bowler and Burdick Co. jewelry store here and escaped, according to police.

The dog was sent after the thief by its owner, a passer by, who told police he saw the man throw the rock through the window and take the jewelry consisting of bracelets, pendants, pins and necklaces.

He was accused of having forged a $250 check on a Williamson, W. Va. bank.

N.&W. BEGINS TO ELIMINATE CROSSINGS

Twenty Local Men, Local Trucks Are Employed by Ringwald, Contractor

WILL BUILD ROAD

Railroad Company Stands All Cost of Work

Work of eliminating the dangerous double crossing of the Norfolk & Western railroad tracks at the south end of Western-ave was begun Monday by W. H. Ringwald, Chillicothe contractor. The work is expected to take between two and three weeks, provided weather remains as it is. A concrete road curving from Western-ave with the N. & W. tracks to Scioto-st, thus eliminating the necessity of crossing the tracks on Western-ave to get to Huston-st then again crossing the tracks to get onto Scioto-st, will be built.

USE LOCAL MEN

While Mr. Ringwald had his own organization with him he employed 20 Circleville laborers to help in the work. It was recommended that Circleville labor be used as widely as possible by the Norfolk & Western engineer after a conference with L. E. Miller, service director.

The project will cost several thousand dollars, it is thought.

A number of Circleville trucks have been employed by Mr. Ringwald to haul gravel from the site of the improvement.

SAFETY MEASURE

The act of the railroad company is a safety measure, as many dangerous crossings as possible being eliminated in the program. By eliminating the double crossing on Western-ave a danger spot is cancelled. In return for the safety improvement the city has agreed to abandon several alleys which cross the railroad tracks in the south end and also to abandon the extreme south point of Western-ave.

The railroad company, in its dealing with the city on the proposed improvement, was represented by Barton Walters.

SCREEN ACTOR, HUNTERS SAFE

Noah Beery and Companions Hunt Missing Hiker Are Caught in Snow Storm

PALMDALE, Cal., Nov. 17.—Victorious in their battle with a mountain snow storm, Noah Beery and two companions were safe in the screen actors lodge today recovering from the effects of their 36-hour ordeal.

Their return to the lodge ended a wide search over the snow swept mountains in which airplanes participated. Cold, hungry and fatigued, the actor and his companion, O. G. Norris, and A. L. Heald returned to the Beery cabin late last night after trudging for hours over tortuous mountain trails.

HUNTED HIKER

The three men had left Sunday morning to search for Robert Elliott, a hiker, who was lost in the storm last Saturday, Beery said. His searching party was caught in a renewal of the same storm and decided to turn back. The three men fought through the blinding snow for hours before they came upon an abandoned cabin. There they remained without food and warmth until the storm abated.

Transportation Problems Told To Kiwanis Club

'Problems of Transportation' was the subject discussed by Lawrence N. Helm, commercial agent of the Norfolk & Western railroad, at the meeting of the Kiwanis club Monday evening at the Boggs Hotel.

Mr. Helm is past president of the Indianapolis Traffic Club and former chairman of the transportation committee of the American Legion, department of Indiana.

"You will note that my subject is 'The Transportation Problem,' not 'The Railroad Problem,'" the speaker began.

"The latter has been greatly exaggerated for there are only three classes of people interested in the railroads. Those who own them, those who work for them and those who use them. But those three classes include just about everybody in this land of ours. You men are interested and rightly so."

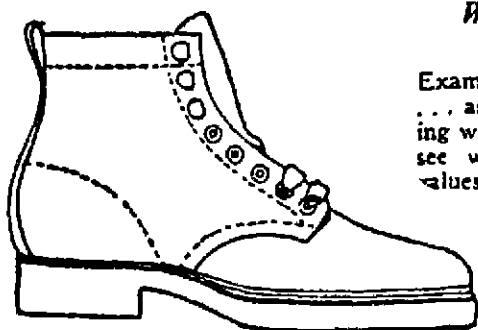

"The railroads do have their problems. So do you. But you don't have 99 governmental regulating bodies telling you what to do, and when and how to do it. I refer to the 48 State Legislatures, 48 State Railroad or Utilities Commissions, Congress, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Railroad Wage Board."

"Either the railroads should be less regulated or their competitors more regulated."

"One of our principal competitors is the Government Barge Line on the Mississippi and Warrior Rivers. Its annual report for 1930 claims a net income of $46,767 but actually there was a loss of

PRIESTS ARE HELD

MADRID, Nov. 17.—More than thirty persons, including military officers, priests and noblemen, have been arrested in connection with the monarchist plot discovered last week, it was learned today.

Government investigators seized a quantity of firearms found hidden in the attic of a church, the priest claimed that members of the parish had placed the guns there for defense in the event the church was attacked.

"What will I give them for dinner tonight?"

It is a question, isn't it? Every single night of the year you must manage to feed those hungry little mouths with a dinner that varies from last night's dinner, yet is equally appealing, well balanced, wholesome and nourishing. Incidentally, you must keep within your food budget.

Why not follow the method of so many other mothers? That is; to plan your meals from the food advertising pages of the Herald. It's wonderfully simple and convenient. Because all the leading stores use the Herald as their mouthpiece. When they have tempting offers, they give you complete description and prices in the Herald. When they have special bargains, they tell you about it in the Herald. Every day, though especially on Thursday and Friday, they list their most attractive items.

Read the FOOD Advertisements

You won't have trouble varying your menu or keeping it well balanced and appealing, if you read the Herald's food advertising regularly. In fact; you'll be flooded with fine, practical suggestions. Perhaps even more important, you'll be able to compare values and take advantage of the lowest prevailing prices. You'll soon find your food bills growing substantially lower. While your meals grow increasingly better.

PAIR WHO CRUELLY BEAT GIRL INDICTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Justice has bared its sword on behalf of a little child.

Harry N. and Mrs. Elsie Riley, father and stepmother of little Edith Riley, 12-year-old alleged victim of parental cruelty, are to be arraigned before the District of Columbia supreme court Friday and charged with "feloniously torturing, cruelly beating, abusing and otherwise wilfully mistreating" the "cupboard child," so named because of her alleged solitary confinement in a closet.

Indictments against the father and stepmother were returned by a District of Columbia grand jury after a week's deliberations. They must stand trial for allegedly inflicting heinous cruelties on the child over a period of four years.

TRIED IN DECEMBER.

Date of the trial will be fixed after the couple has been arraigned formally on the indictments. It is expected the trial will be held early in December.

Both the Rileys are now at liberty on bail of $2,500 each. If convicted of the charges against them, they face two years in jail or $250 fine, or both.

Meanwhile, masked-faced little Edith, whose case has stirred the nation, is slowly recovering strength and mentality under the kind and devoted care of nurses at Gallinger hospital.

She still wears the mask of spemity which hospital attendants believe was molded on her pitiful countenance through months of confinement in the dungeon-like closet. She still suffers periods of abstraction, when she seems completely unaware of those around her and stares vacantly into space.

These periods of abnormality have led hospital psychologists to advance the theory that she may be engrossed in a fantastic little world of her own, born of her solitude in the dark closet.

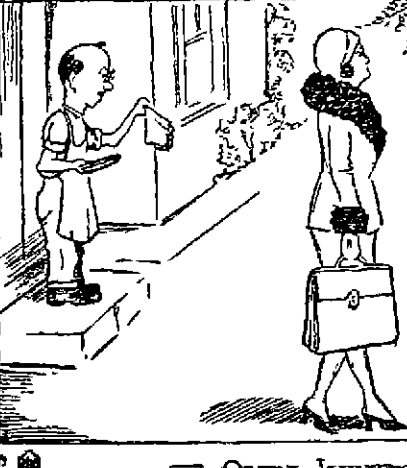

The psychologists are preparing a report on her mental condition which may be issued today. It is expected to have an important bearing on the trial, as it will, it is understood, refute the parents' assertion that the child was feeble-minded as an infant and therefore had to be kept locked up to prevent her injuring herself.

Wonder World of Future Will Be Ruled by Women

Famous Novelist Predicts a Golden Age of No Difficulties 250 Years Hence. But a New Race of Amazons Will Run the World—By Logic

PENTHESUEA QUEEN OF THE AMAZONS

A world where drudgery of everyday tasks is completely eliminated by the use of robots, an age when human intelligence has advanced so far that the now complicated Einstein theory will be discussed and understood in primary schools, and when 75 years "old" will be regarded as the bloom of youth. According to Owen Johnson, famous novelist and author of the book "The Coming of the Amazons," that's the kind of world we'll have 250 years from now. But there's a catch to it. Mr. Johnson goes on to say that this wonderful world will be ruled by a new race of Amazons—powerful women who will run governments and industries. The man of this wonderful age will occupy a similar position to the clinging vine type of female which we now associate with the early Victorian era. And if man wants to avoid his fate, says Johnson, he'll have to do away with wars, for they always relegate the male to the minority.

BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—With the Pathe and R. K. O. studios in a state of jitter over the impending shake-up, David O. Selznick made what may be considered a prophetic statement when he said the two companies are very weak in directors and writers.

Mr. Selznick previously had sent Richard Dix's picture back to be re-written and cancelled a Lily Damita film entirely.

The young executive (he is only 30) has no plans for any particular type of story at R. K. O.

"No one can set any rules for stories," he says. "As an example, when 'The Divorce' was produced, the wise ones said the public was going sophisticated. Along came 'Merely Mary Ann' and 'Daddy Long Legs,' and these same ones reversed themselves to declare the public was tired of sophistication and wanted the homey, simple type of story."

"No one seems to take into account that both Norma Shearer and Janet Gaynor are box-office regardless of what they happen to be in."

"I am going to pick stories that I think will appeal to audiences, independent of their type. Irving Thalberg follows this formula with great success. 'Strangers May Kiss,' 'Trader Horn,' and 'hokum' such as 'Hell Divers,' which is a great picture, certainly follow no set trend."

Selznick promises to build up the star roster, particularly in the development of new personalities. He considers Laurence Olivier and Joel McCrea good bets. Generally, he declares, it takes from four to six pictures to build up a corner into a feature name.

Asked about musicals, he said he favors the operetta type, such as "The Student Prince," and "The Merry Widow."

All Hollywood has its eyes on this young producer, who holds the fate of many destinies in his hands. When he and his wife, the former Irene Mayer, appeared at the Academy dinner, they were surrounded by well wishers.

MARIE'S REPLY

One of the brighter moments at the Film Award banquet was when Marie Dressler rose to accept the gold statuette for the best performance of any actress during the year.

"I never felt so important," she said. And then, smiling toward Vice President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, she added:

"I think Dolly Gann should give me her seat."

LATEST GOSSIP.

At this same dinner, Ivan Lebedeff lost a ruby from a ring that had been in his family for several generations. Evelyn Brent and Harry Edwards celebrated their third wedding anniversary. They were married in Agua Caliente.

Joan Crawford and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., will take their vacation in Canada instead of New York. Constance Lewis, Lois Wilson's youngest sister, is Connie Bennett's "stand-in" out at R. K. O. Pathe. Stanley Cortez, brother of Ricardo, is an assistant cameraman on the same set.

Buddy Rogers will appear in the Ziegfeld Follies after he finishes at Paramount. Charles Farrell is learning to fly. Claudette Colbert has returned from a week's recuperation at Palm Springs.

Seena Owen is back in town and looking grand. While Samuel Goldwyn is in Europe, his chief asstant, Arthur Hornblow, will be in New York for plays, and his casting director, Robert McIntyre, will tour the country looking for talent.

After much debating, it has been decided to give Lew Ayres the masculine lead in "The Impatient Maiden," formerly "Impatient Virgin," by Donald Henderson Clark.

The heroine is yet to be decided. James Whale, director of "Waterloo Bridge," will bring the story to the screen.

IN THE NEWS.

Columbia's newspaper story, "Final Edition," will have Mae Clark as a sob sister. She was borrowed from Universal to play opposite Pat O'Brien, who takes a step up to become a city editor in this one. The story is about the murder of a newly appointed police commissioner, with the sob sister unraveling the crime. Precy Mary Moran is another in the case. Dudley Nichols, an ex-World employe, wrote "Final Edition" and it will be produced by Ralph Block, also a former newspaperman. Maybe the much maligned press will get a fair break at last.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause

When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation, contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Cleveland Voters In Mayor's Fight

CLEVELAND, O.—With two "political ghosts" as headlines, Cleveland's political stage will, for the next four months, feature a spirited contest between Democrats and the G. O. P. for control of the mayor's office in city hall, a position recreated by the voters in ousting the city manager plan.

That the scene of this political drama may deviate from the forensic ballyhoo by candidates to the more sedate halls of a courtroom to settle legal technicalities is considered more than a possibility. At least one phase of the city's code—that which prohibits municipal elections in even-numbered, or state or national election years—will be questioned by some type of court action, it was believed.

The Danaceau charter amendment plan, discarding the manager system for the old elective mayor-council form of government, provides a special election next February after a primary on January 12. This amendment, passed by a majority reaching nearly 10,000 votes, forced the showing of the interesting and bitter political play now in its first act.

Conclusion of the first act will come December 3, the deadline for candidates to declare their intention to run in the primaries. The primaries will end act two and the election will bring at least a temporary conclusion to the exhibition.

Several more acts may be inserted by public demand if and when the scenes are shifted to the courtroom.

Election night, as soon as it became assured that the manager plan had been thrown out by the voters in the largest city in the nation which ever tried it after a test lasting a decade, immediately started as to who would be the characters in the forthcoming mayoralty campaign.

Four names stood out almost immediately and at least three as many more were mentioned the next day. Two of the first four are rated at present as the show, headliners and both are stars of past elections. The other two were victims of the manager system of government.

Former Governor Harry L. Davis, Republican, and Ex-Mayor Fred Kohler, of the Democratic faith, are the "heavyweights" who have spoken a word and expect to present a statement before December 2, the filing deadline. Former City Managers William Hopkins and William D. Morgan, listed from office by the charter election, are considered as potential Republican candidates. Hopkins, if he ran as a G. O. P., would be fighting the Maurice

Improving Niagara

A NEW public opinion is being moved into a fixed policy which will forever prohibit destruction of natural beauty spot in America for commercial reasons. Niagara is a great power source, but it is a great scenic wonder, and every precaution should be taken for its protection. The American and Canadian governments should never relinquish any right they have to control the flow over the falls and all power and other development affecting the great cataract.

Experts have found that the falls are in no danger of "committing suicide" through erosion, but that a program of rehabilitation is necessary to restore their pristine beauty. The recession of the crest line up stream, the decreased flow from the Great Lakes in recent years and the withdrawal of water for navigation, sanitary and power purpose have detracted from their beauty.

Every interest and purpose will be served if, as the experts claim, a way can be found to make the falls more beautiful and at the same time divert a greater volume of water for power generation. At the present too much water is flowing over the center of the horseshoe falls and too little at the edges near the shore. More even distribution would improve the blended green and white color effect and resultant diminution of the spray would make the graceful tumbling of the water more visible.

It is encouraging to find that a scientific effort is being made to improve and preserve this most famous of science wonders in America, and that this improvement and preservation will not eliminate it as a power source.

Edison Monument

UNSEEMLY haste has been shown by those enterprising businessmen of the late Thomas Alva Edison in setting out almost before the obsequies were over to collect several millions by public subscription for a memorial to the famous inventor and public benefactor.

Edison needs no memorial other than those he erected during his own life time to his own genius. Nor will the world forget him if it proceeds slowly in raising to his memory a proper monument. The plan for "an everlasting light on Orange mountain" is appropriate but it could only faintly suggest the greater light he brought into his world.

They used to say that after you had decided to cut down a tree you ought to think a year before carrying out the decision. The same rule might well be applied to this business of erecting monuments to the great and near great.

Edison monuments are inevitable. There will not only be one but many of them, marking the scenes and events of his life. But let the nation proceed slowly in the matter of raising a national monument. Let it resist efforts to rush it into selecting a site and adopting a plan or design. Such details require sober thought and much deliberation.

Such things should be allowed to pursue their natural course. It was because they were in the cases of both Washington and Lincoln that the monuments erected in their memory in the nation's capital are the revered mecas of hundreds of thousands of patriots every year.

More Efficient Hens

COMPLAINTS about the unfortunate effect on mankind of artificial division of labor such as the automobile manufacturer has popularized are common enough in these days of standardization and mass production. But, with a little more progress the hen population, which already has a grievance against Mr. Ford because of his products, will be signing manifestos denouncing him for having set a bad example to poultrymen.

The use of electricity in hen-houses has been as highly developed as in the home. Not only are the incubators and brooders thermostatically controlled by electricity, but electrically operated conveyors carry feed to the poultry house and eggs to the packing room, where they are cleaned with sand electrically blown.

The possibilities seem to be almost unlimited if the poultrymen will only employ expert hen psychologists to teach the birds real efficiency. All that is needed is to train them to lay the eggs on the conveyor so that there will be no lost time or motion. With a little thought it should be possible to devise a conveyor which will do all the work at the henhouse in record time.

It doesn't seem quite fair and humane for man, with the aid of flood lights, to fool his laying hens into working overtime and then take from her that personal touch to which she has so long been accustomed.

The CZARINA'S RUBIES

by Sidney Warwick

READ THIS FIRST

Katharine Faring is the rightful owner of the Czarina rubies, hidden when her grandfather, Prince Murinov, was slain by a revolutionary mob. Her friend, Frank Severn, goes to Russia, finds them and entrusts them to Paul Federoff, who reaches England, only to be slain at a country place called Monksilver.

Severn returns and hides himself at his own country home, Beggar's Court, and calls upon his friend Jim Wynter for help. However, he is kidnapped before Wynter can reach him. Katharine, once a successful violinist, has given up her career because of an injury to her wrist. She is poor. Jim Wynter rescues her from the unwelcome attentions of Lester Mallin, who has money, but no morals. Wynter tells her of Severn's kidnapping and she suggests that the unfortunate man may be held prisoner at Monksilver, where she believes the rubies are hidden. Wynter resolves to go there immediately. Enroute, Wynter is startled to see Severn passing in another car driven by Creyke, his servant.

NOW GO ON

CHAPTER XV

Not far down the road Jim Wynter came upon the house. In the dim, obscured light the name Monksilver met his eyes in faded gilt lettering from a pair of tall oak gates. Behind them an uncarved, far, weed-grown drive ran through a neglected wilderness of garden to the house. The house itself lay set far back from the road, so shut in by trees that little more than stray peeps of it were obtainable through the yellowing Autumn leaves.

Eagerly Wynter twisted the great iron handle before he realized that the gates were fast. They were chained up and pad-locked, as though the house was shut up and not even inhabited now by a caretaker.

This unexpected rebuff brought a sudden anxious frown to his face. Had he been mistaken after all in believing that it could only be to Monksilver that Creyke was driving?

Jim Wynter stood staring with puzzled eyes at the chained-up gates. Surely if a car had driven to this house within the last ten minutes, a car that presumably would be leaving again, he would hardly have found the gates locked like this.

He peered down the dim, shadowy drive towards the house behind the screen of trees, its windows, so far as he could see, all in darkness. Had he been tantalized by that fleeting glimpse of the missing man only to lose the trail again?

Then a quick, eager exclamation broke from Wynter.

LIGHT

A light had suddenly gleamed out through the trees from one of the windows of the dark house. The gates might be locked; but Monksilver at least was not deserted!

"Good enough," Jim Wynter said to himself.

And without further ceremony he climbed over that padlocked gate.

The light had vanished now from that upper window as he made his way down the long drive, avoiding the gravel for the rank grass that grew at the side. He did not want the sound of his footsteps through the quiet night to give warning of his approach. He did not know yet who was responsible for that light. Possibly, of course, it was only a caretaker. Still, on the other hand, it might not be a caretaker, but an enemy, and secrets it might be well to walk wearily.

The long, winding avenue brought him out into an open, gravelled space in front of the great house. The night was almost moonless, but in the dim starlight Monksilver stood out vaguely defined; the front in unbroken darkness again. Not even a gleam of light showed through the faint light above the hall door.

Wynter stopped suddenly dead. He had not seen it at first, hidden in the deep obscurity—but there before him was the car that had passed him on the road! Its lights had been extinguished, and it had been run off the gravelled sweep into the shadow of the trees that overhung the open space; but as Wynter took a quick step nearer he recognized it almost beyond question as the same car. Not a fruitless journey after all.

The driver was still sitting in the car; in the dimness Wynter's eyes could just make out the vague figure of the chauffeur, who did not even turn his head, as if still unaware of the silent approach of the newcomer.

Nor did he turn as Wynter strode quickly up to the car emptied now of its passenger, as a glance told him. Frank Severn, after being driven here, must have been taken into the house—and Creyke was going to explain why. Wynter promised himself grimly.

"Well, Creyke, my man," he said suddenly, his voice, though not raised, sounding curiously loud in the hushed stillness of the night, "so it seems you could have told us, after all, about Mr. Severn's disappearance."

SILENCE

He was surprised that the man had seemingly not heard his approach, still more surprised that Creyke did not turn now with a start at the sudden challenge. But the man in the driver's seat neither moved or spoke, his half-averted face a vague white blur in the shadow.

Impatiently Wynter thrust in a hand through the window of the car to grip Creyke's arm. With the mere touch of his hand the man inside fell forward queerly, stiffly, like some marionette. And Wynter brought his breath, a little cold sweat breaking out at his temples. His fingers as they reached out to the figure in the car had touched something wet.

"Creyke!"

Hurriedly, with a sudden uneasy thrill, Jim Wynter fumbled for matches, struck a light. The only tongue of flame flared up, touching the white face, the huddled, forward-fallen figure; tucked, too, a little dark pool of man's feet.

"My God!" broke from Wynter at the sudden horror of the thing.

For Creyke was dead with a knife wound above his heart to show how he had died.

The match died out between Jim Wynter's fingers. But for a long moment he stood motionless, white and shaken, under the shock of this grim, unexpected thing that had crept out to his consciousness from the shadow.

Murder! The blood that had made a widening stain on the man's clothing just above the heart was proof enough of that. A second deed of violence at Monksilver.

Murder! By whom? Someone in that house where a few moments before he had seen a moving light.

Wynter stood listening through the strained silence of the night a creeping thrill quivering along his nerves. The great rambling house confronting him was dark and soundless—but almost certainly the man or men guilty of this were there within its walls, and almost certainly, too, that man he had seen earlier in the car with the white, unconscious face—his friend, Frank Severn.

INDECISION

Then as Wynter stood irresolute wondering what his next step should be in view of his grim discovery, the light flashed up again behind the curtained window of an upper room.

Should he steal quietly off with his news to the police? That would mean, of course, inevitable delay, with the possible risk that he and the representatives of the law might come back to find those unknown criminals gone without a trace.

Faintly through the breathless night a sound reached him, as Wynter stood hesitating, a sound that seemed to come from the upper room where that light was—a long, shuddering moan. Was it from Frank Severn? Throwing all restraining prudence to the winds, Jim Wynter stole on tiptoe across the gravelled opening space to the front door.

And unexpectedly the door was ajar! He paused listening for a second, then softly pushed the door a little way back; it opened on a broad, dark hall. On its threshold that moaning sound reached him again.

THE NATIONAL GESTURE!

Theaters

AT THE CLIFTONA

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., featured in First National's picture "I Like Your Nerve," showing now at the Cliftona Theater, is ready to match his skill as a driver against Malcolm Campbell, Bullet Baker, Outdoor Franklin or any other of the fearless fraternity of stunt motorists.

Doug's new picture, "I Like Your Nerve," calls upon him for several feats of daredevil speeding. Not only does he have to drive several highpowered cars at reckless speed, spin them around corners on two wheels, then through gates, fences, and into bridge railings with nice judgment of camera angle and safety for others as well as for himself.

These feats, however, are not as risky as they sound. Before such scenes are made all conditions are carefully considered. Distances are figured to an inch, the weight of the car and its speed are allowed for and calculated in advance, the car brakes are tested and nothing is left to chance.

AT THE GRAND

Joan Bennett, co-featured with Warner Baxter in Fox's "Doctors' Wives," directed by Frank Borzage, and now at the Grand Theater, had this to say of her role in a recent interview.

"Nina" was the sort of role I had longed to do ever since I came to Hollywood. 'Here,' I said to myself, 'when I first read the script, is a role for you, Joan!' I pictured the young girl, worshipping her father, his ideals, his accomplishments in medicine, imbued with an idealistic conception of the humanitarian service performed by the medical profession.

"Then there was the necessary element of quality in her character. She had grown up with the reiterated attacks upon her father, and all doctors, by her frustrated mother.

"Torn between the conflicting forces, 'Nina,' to me, was a perfect character to lend full weight to the romance that was quickly to spring up between her and 'Dr. Jude' Pevine, the young surgeon.

"Love to women is a business. And how 'Nina' solves her problem to achieve love is what fascinated me in 'Doctors' Wives.'"

Any member of the family of Mrs. Fannie Rice, 459 N. Court-st., is invited to be a guest of The Herald at the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

Pedestrians yet retain the right to murmur the name of a favorite emergency hospital.

CONTROL OF PEACH CURL IS EXPLAINED

There are very few diseases on fruit which are as easily controlled as peach leaf curl. Fall spraying is most effective because it kills the dormant spores which pass the winter on the buds. If spraying is delayed until Spring, there are usually a few warm days early in the spring before the average grower thinks about spraying. These few days are sufficient to cause the spores to germinate if no spray has been applied. The spray should be made any time after the leaves have fallen and before winter weather starts in. The temperature for spraying should be 40 degrees F. and spraying should cease at least one hour before sundown to permit the spray to dry on the trees before freezing.

Improving Niagara
NEW public opinion is being molded into a fixed policy which will forever prohibit destruction of natural beauty spot in America for commercial reasons. Niagara is a great power source, but it is a great scenic wonder, and every precaution should be taken for its protection. The American and Canadian governments should never relinquish any right they have to control the flow over the falls and power and other development affecting the great cataract.

Experts have said that the falls are in danger of "committing suicide" through erosion, but that a program of rehabilitation is necessary to restore their pristine beauty. The recession of the great line up stream, the decreased flow from the Great Lakes in recent years, and the withdrawal of water for navigation, sanitary and power purpose have detracted from their beauty.

Every interest and purpose will be served if, as the experts claim, a way can be found to make the falls more beautiful and at the same time divert a greater volume of water for power generation. At the present too much water is flowing over the center of the horseshoe falls and too little at the edges near the shore. More even distribution would improve the blended green and white color effect and resultant diminution of the spray would make the graceful tumbling of the water more visible.

It is encouraging to find that a scientific effort is being made to improve and preserve this most famous of science wonders in America, and that this improvement and preservation will not eliminate it as a power source.

Edison Monument
UNRESEMBLY has been shown by those enterprises to the late Thomas Alva Edison in setting out almost before the obsequies were over to collect the millions by public subscription for a memorial to the famous inventor and public benefactor.

Edison needs no memorial other than those he erected during his own life time to his own genius. Nor will the world forget him if it proceeds slowly in raising to his memory a proper monument. The plan for "an everlasting light on Orange mountain" is appropriate but it could only faintly suggest the greater light he brought into his world.

They used to say that after you had decided to cut down a tree you ought to think a year before carrying out the decision. The same rule might be applied to this business of erecting monuments to the great and near great. Edison monuments are inevitable. There will not only be one but many of them, marking the scenes and events of his life. But let the nation proceed slowly in the matter of raising a national monument. Let it resist efforts to rush into selecting a site and adopting a plan or design. Such details require sober thought and much deliberation.

Such things should be allowed to pursue their natural course. It was because they were in the cases of both Washington and Lincoln that the monuments erected in their memory in the nation's capital are the revered mecca of hundreds of thousands of patriots every year.

The CZARINA'S RUBIES

by Sidney Warwick

READ THIS FIRST

Katharine Faring is the rightful owner of the Czarina rubies, hidden when her grandfather, Prince Murinov, was slain by a revolutionary mob. Her friend, Frank Severn, goes to Russia, finds them and entrusts them to Paul Federoff, who reaches England, only to be slain at a country place called Monksilver.

Severn returns and hides himself at his own country home, Beggar's Court, and calls upon his friend Jim Wynter for help. However, he is kidnapped before Wynter can reach him.

Katharine, once a successful violinist, has given up her career because of an injury to her wrist. She is poor. Jim Wynter rescues her from the unwelcome attentions of Lester Malin, who has money, but no morals. Wynter tells her of Severn's kidnapping and she suggests that the unfortunate man may be held prisoner at Monksilver, where she believes the rubies are hidden. Wynter resolves to go there immediately. Enroute, Wynter is startled to see Severn passing in another car driven by Creyke, his servant.

NOW GO ON

CHAPTER XV

Not far down the road Jim Wynter came upon the house. In the dim, obscured light the name Monksilver met his eyes in faded gilt lettering from a pair of tall oak gates. Behind them an uncared-for, weed-grown drive ran through a neglected wilderness of garden to the house. The house itself lay set far back from the road, so shut in by trees that little more than stray peeps of it were obtainable through the yellowing Autumn leaves.

Eagerly Wynter twisted the great iron handle before he realized that the gates were fast. They were chained up and pad-locked, as though the house was shut up and not even inhabited now by a caretaker.

This unexpected rebuff brought a sudden anxious frown to his face. Had he been mistaken after all in believing that it could only be to Monksilver that Creyke was driving?

Jim Wynter stood staring with puzzled eyes at the chained-up gates. Surely if a car had driven to this house within the last ten minutes, a car that presumably would be leaving again, he would hardly have found the gates locked like this.

He peered down the dim, shadowy drive towards the house behind the screen of trees, its windows, so far as he could see, all in darkness. Had he been mistaken after all in believing that it could only be to Monksilver that Creyke was driving?

Then a quick, eager exclamation broke from Wynter.

LIGHT
A light had suddenly gleamed out through the trees from one of the windows of the dark house. The gates might be locked; but Monksilver at least was not deserted!

"Good enough," Jim Wynter said to himself.
And without further ceremony he climbed over that padlocked gate. The light had vanished now from that upper window as he made his way down the long drive, avoiding the gravel for the rank grass that grew at the side. He did not want the sound of his footsteps through the quiet night to give warning of the approach. He did not know yet who was responsible for that light. Possibly, of course, it was only a caretaker. Still, on the other hand, it might not be a caretaker, but an enemy, and in this house of dark memories and secrets it might be well to walk warily.

The long, winding avenue brought him out into an open, grassy space in front of the great house. The night was almost moonless, but in the dim starlight Monksilver stood out vaguely defined, the front in unbroken darkness again. Not even a gleam of light showed through the faint light above the hall door. Wynter stopped suddenly dead. He had not seen it at first hidden in the deep obscurity—but there before him was the car that had passed him on the road! Its lights had been extinguished, and it had been run off the gravelled sweep into the shadow of the trees that overhung the open space; but as Wynter took a quick step nearer he recognized it almost beyond question as the same car. Not a fruitless journey after all.

The driver was still sitting in the car, in the dimness Wynter's eyes could just make out the vague figure of the chauffeur, who did not even turn his head, as if still unaware of the silent approach of the newcomer.

Nor did he turn as Wynter strode quickly up to the car emptied now of its passenger, as a glance told him Frank Severn, after being driven here, must have been taken into the house—and Creyke was going to explain why. Wynter promised himself grimly.

"Well, Creyke, my man," he said suddenly, his voice though not raised sounding curiously loud in the hushed stillness of the night, "so it seems you could have told us, after all, about Mr. Severn's disappearance."

SILENCE
He was surprised that the man had seemingly not heard his approach, still more surprised that Creyke did not turn now with a start at the sudden challenge. But the man in the driver's seat neither moved or spoke, his half-averted face a vague white blur in the shadow.

Impatiently Wynter thrust in a hand through the window of the car to grip Creyke's arm. With the mere touch of his hand the man inside felt forward queerly, stiffly, like some marionette. And Wynter caught his breath, a little cold sweat breaking out at his temples. His fingers as they reached out to the figure in the car had touched something wet.

"Creyke!"
Suddenly, with a sudden aneary thrill, Jim Wynter tumbled out of the car, struck a light. The dry, jagged of flame flared up, touching the white face the head of forward-

Physicians yesterday administered a musk, which had been rushed here from Chicago in the belief that it would stop the malady, but the effort failed. THE NATIONAL GESTURE!

Theaters

AT THE CLIFTONA

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., featured in First National's picture "I Like Your Nerve," showing now at the Cliftona Theater, is ready to match his skill as a driver against Malcolm Campbell, Bullet Baker, Outdoor Frankan or any other of the fearless fraternity of stunt motorists.

Doug's new picture, "I Like Your Nerve," calls upon him for several feats of daredevil speeding. Not only does he have to drive several high-powered cars at reckless speed, spin them around corners on two wheels, then through gates, fences, and into bridge railings with nice judgment of camera angle and safety for others as well as for himself.

These feats, however, are not as risky as they sound. Before such scenes are made all conditions are carefully considered. Distances are figured to an inch, the weight of the car and its speed are allowed for and calculated in advance, the car brakes are tested and nothing is left to chance.

Joan Bennett, co-featured with Warner Baxter in Fox's "Doctors' Wives," directed by Frank Borzage, and now at the Grand Theater, had this to say of her role in a recent interview.

CONTROL OF PEACH CURL IS EXPLAINED

There are very few diseases on fruit which are as easily controlled as peach leaf curl. Fall spraying is most effective because it kills the dormant spores which pass the winter on the buds. If spraying is delayed until Spring, there are usually a few warm days early in the spring before the average grower thinks about spraying. These few days are sufficient to cause the spores to germinate if no spray has been applied. The spray should be made any time after the leaves have fallen and before winter weather starts in. The temperature for spraying should be 40 degrees F. and spraying should cease at least one hour before sundown to permit the spray to dry on the trees before freezing.

For fall application, lime sulphur or Bordeaux mixture should be used. Lime sulphur 3-4 gallons of liquid or 7 pints of dry lime sulphur to 50 gallons water. If scale is present, these proportions should be doubled. Bordeaux mixture, 2-4-50 may be used in place of the lime sulphur, however, Bordeaux will not control scale. Peach growers should take the precaution of thorough spraying this fall to control peach leaf curl which has been showing up in increasing amounts during the last three years.

Before taking any step, consult your family physician. He will carefully examine your child's throat and decide whether or not the tonsils really need to be removed. This is the season when the child should be watched for such ailments as enlarged tonsils, sore throats, and nasal trouble. Then, if operative measures are indicated, they should be attended to in warm weather. Of course, if the case is a positive one, it is unwise to wait.

PAIR WHO CRUELLY BEAT GIRL INDICTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Justice has bared its sword on behalf of a little child.

Harry N. and Mrs. Elsie Riley, father and stepmother of little Edith Riley, 12-year-old alleged victim of parental cruelty, are to be arraigned before the District of Columbia supreme court Friday and charged with "feloniously torturing, cruelly beating, abusing and otherwise willfully mistreating" the "cupboard child," so named because of her alleged solitary confinement in a closet.

Indictments against the father and stepmother were returned by a District of Columbia grand jury after a week's deliberations. They must stand trial for allegedly inflicting heinous cruelties on the child over a period of four years.

TRIED IN DECEMBER

Date of the trial will be fixed after the couple has been arraigned formally on the indictments. It is expected the trial will be held early in December.

Both the Rileys are now at liberty on bail of $2,500 each. If convicted of the charges against them, they face two years in jail or $250 fine, or both.

Meanwhile, masked-faced little Edith, whose case has stirred the nation, is slowly recovering strength and mentality under the kind and devoted care of nurses at Gallinger hospital.

She still wears the mask of solemnity which hospital attendants believe was molded on her pitiful countenance through months of confinement in the dungeon-like closet. She still suffers periods of abstraction, when she seems completely unaware of those around her and stares vacantly into space.

These periods of abnormality have led hospital psychologists to advance the theory that she may be engrossed in a fantastic little world of her own, born of her solitude in the dark closet.

The psychologists are preparing a report on her mental condition which may be issued today. It is expected to have an important bearing on the trial, as it will, it is understood, refute the parents' assertion that the child was feeble-minded as an infant and therefore had to be kept locked up to prevent her injuring herself.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause

When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Castoria's regulative help will bring relaxed comfort and restful sleep to your baby. Keep a bottle on hand. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

Wonder World of Future Will Be Ruled by Women

Famous Novelist Predicts a Golden Age of No Difficulties 250 Years Hence. But a New Race of Amazons Will Run the World—By Logie

PENTHESILEA QUEEN OF THE AMAZONS

A world where drudgery of everyday tasks is completely eliminated by the use of robots, an age when human intelligence has advanced so far that the now complicated Einstein theory will be discussed and understood in primary schools, and when 75 years' old will be regarded as the bloom of youth. According to Owen Johnson, famous novelist and author of the book "The Coming of the Amazons," that's the kind of world we'll have 250 years from now. But there's a catch to it. Mr. Johnson goes on to say that this wonderful world will be ruled by a new race of Amazons—powerful women who will run governments and industries. The man of this wonderful age will occupy a similar position to the clinging vine type of female which we now associate with the early Victorian era. And if man wants to avoid his fate, says Johnson, he'll have to do away with wars; for they always relegate the male to the minority.

Cleveland Voters In Mayor's Fight

CLEVELAND, O. — With two "political ghosts" as headliners, Cleveland's political stage will, for the next four months, feature a spirited contest between Democrats and the G. O. P. for control of the mayor's office in city hall, a position recreated by the voters in ousting the city manager plan.

That the scene of this political drama may deviate from the forensic ballyhoo by candidates to the more sedate halls of a courtroom to settle legal technicalities is considered more than a possibility. At least one phase of the city's code—that which prohibits municipal elections in even-numbered, or state or national election years—will be questioned by some type of court action, it was believed.

The Danaceau charter amendment plan, discarding the manager system for the old elective mayor-council form of government, provides a special election next February after a primary on January 12. This amendment, passed by a majority reaching nearly 10,000 votes, forced the showing of the interesting and bitter political play now in its first act.

Conclusion of the first act will come December 3, the deadline for candidates to declare their intention to run in the primaries. The primaries will end act two and the election will bring at least a temporary conclusion to the exhibition.

Several more acts may be inserted by public demand if and when the scenes are shifted to the courtroom.

Election night, as soon as it became assured that the manager plan had been thrown out by the voters in the largest city in the nation which ever tried it after a test lasting a decade, speculation started as to who would be the characters in the forthcoming mayoralty campaign.

Four names stood out almost immediately and at least three as many more were mentioned the next day. Two of the first four are rated at present as the show's headliners and both are stars of past elections. The other two were victims of the manager system of government.

Former Governor Harry L. Davis, Republican, and Ex-Mayor Fred Kohler, of the Democratic faith, are the "ghosts." Neither have spoken a word except to promise a statement before December 3, the filing deadline. Former City Managers William Hopkins, now councilman, and Daniel Morgan, ousted from office by the charter adoption, are considered as potential Republican candidates. Hopkins, if he ran as a G. O. P., would be fighting the Maurice

By HARRISON CARROLL
HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — With the Pathe and R. K. O. studios in a state of jitters over the impending shake-up, David O. Selznick made what may be considered a prophetic statement when he said the two companies are very weak in directors and writers.

Mr. Selznick previously had sent Richard Dix's picture back to be re-written and cancelled a Lily Damita film entirely.

The young executive (he is only 30) has no plans for any particular type of story at R. K. O.

"No one can set any rules for stories," he says. "As an example, when 'The Divorce' was produced, the wise ones said the public was going sophisticated. Along came 'Merely Mary Ann' and 'Daddy Long Legs,' and these same ones reversed themselves to declare the public was tired of sophistication and wanted the homey, simple type of story."

"No one seems to take into account that both Norma Shearer and Janet Gaynor are box-office regardless of what they happen to be in."

"I am going to pick stories that I think will appeal to audiences, independent of their type. Irving Thalberg follows this formula with great success. 'Strangers May Kiss,' 'Trader Horn,' and 'Hokum' such as 'Hell Divers,' which is a great picture, certainly follow no set trend."

Selznick promises to build up the star rostrum, particularly in the development of new personalities. He considers Laurence Olivier and Joel McCrea good bets. Generally, he declares, it takes from four to six pictures to build up a corner into a feature name.

Asked about musicals, he said he favors the operetta type, such as "The Student Prince," and "The Merry Widow."

All Hollywood has its eyes on this young producer, who holds the fate of many destinies in his hands. When he and his wife, the former Irene Mayer, appeared at the Academy dinner, they were surrounded by well wishers.

MARIE'S REPLY

One of the brighter moments at the Film Award banquet was when Marie Dressler rose to accept the gold statuette for the best performance of any actress during the year.

"I never felt so important," she said. And then, smiling toward Vice President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, she added:

"I think Dolly Gann should give me her seat."

LATEST GOSSIP.

At this same dinner, Ivan Lebedeff lost a ruby from a ring that had been in his family for several generations. Evelyn Brent and Harry Edwards celebrated their third wedding anniversary. They were married in Agua Caliente. Joan Crawford and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., will take their vacation in Canada instead of New York. Constance Lewis, Lois Wilson's youngest sister, is Connie Bennett's "stand-in" out at R. K. O. Pathe. Stanley Cortez, brother of Ricardo, is an assistant cameraman on the same set. Buddy Rogers will appear in the Ziegfeld Follies after he finishes at Paramount. Charles Farrell is learning to fly. Claudette Colbert has returned from a week's recuperation at Palm Springs. Seena Owen is back in town and looking grand. While Samuel Goldwyn is in Europe, his chief assistant, Arthur Hornblow, will be in New York for plays, and his casting director, Robert McIntyre, will tour the country looking for talent.

After much debating, it has been decided to give Lew Ayres the masculine lead in "The Impatient Maiden," formerly "Impatient Virgin," by Donald Henderson Clark. The heroine is yet to be decided. James Whale, director of "Waterloo Bridge," will bring the story to the screen.

IN THE NEWS.

Columbia's newspaper story, "Final Edition," will have Mae Clark as a sob sister. She was borrowed from Universal to play opposite Pat O'Brien, who takes a step up to become a city editor in this one. The story is about the murder of a newly appointed police commissioner, with the sob sister unraveling the crime. Pretty Mary Moran is another in the case. Dudley Nichols, an ex-World employe, wrote "Final Edition," and it will be produced by Ralph Block, also a former newspaperman. Maybe the much maligned press will get a fair break at last.

Upset Not Serious If Bowels Get This Help

When you're out-of-sorts, head-achy, dizzy, bilious, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy—don't worry. It's probably constipation.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how quickly your trouble clears up. No more headache; no gas on stomach or bowels. Appetite improves; digestion is encouraged. Take another tomorrow night and the next night. Get every bit of the souring waste out of your system. Then see how bowel action is regular and complete.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. Ten cents at all drug stores.

BARTER DAYS ARE BACK
PENDLETON, Ore. — Eastern Oregon communities have resorted to the old system of barter this year to supply themselves with a variety of farm products. Milton Freewater will exchange apples for flour; Athena will trade beans for flour, and Stanfield wants flour, in exchange for its potatoes. Millers in the great Pendleton wheat belt have agreed to grind wheat at the rate of a barrel of flour for four and a half bushels of wheat. Pendleton will be the clearing house for the trades.

Still, men have liberty to do as they please—assuming, of course, that they please to be decent.

Astrology and Wealth

On May 10, 1930, in this vicinity, two boys were born. One was born at exactly 1:23 a. m. and the other at 5:07 a. m. What a difference these few minutes will make in the financial affairs of these boys.

The one born at 1:23 a. m. will make money easily, most of it by investments and banking. He will not be easily influenced by others, will be able to save a great part of his earnings and will reach a high position in the business world.

The other boy born only three hours and forty-four minutes later will also make money, but will be inclined to spend it too freely for his own good. He will listen to the advice of his associates in business and live to regret it many times. It is likely that he will make and lose several fortunes if his parents do not do all in their power to eradicate the tendency to spend and to invest in new schemes.

Therein lies the value of astrological advice. To know ourselves as others know us: to learn our inherent weaknesses and to so govern our lives as to overcome these things.

Following are some dates and hours of birth which are exceptionally fortunate for all those born at those times. The time is Eastern standard.

May 9th and 10th—Between 2:40 a. m. and 4:10 a. m.
October 12th and 13th—Between 6:09 p. m. and 7:25 p. m.
1930
June 21st—Between 2:27 a. m. and 3:30 a. m.
November 11th—Between 6:40 p. m. and 8:00 p. m.
1931
March 2nd and 3rd—Between 10:38 a. m. and noon
May 3rd—Between 6:58 and 8:11 a. m.
1932
April 2nd—Between 10:52 a. m. and noon
August 25th and 26th—Between 2:52 a. m. and 4:23 a. m.
There are some other fortunate birth periods in these years but time and space forbid further comment.

Interest Is High In "Grunt" Show

For the first time in the history of the city, local wrestling fans will have a chance to see the world's lightweight champion wrestler at the benefit wrestling show being sponsored by the How-Hall Post of American Legion, Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Frank Davis, S. Court-st, well known match-maker who provided shows for wrestling and boxing fans during the summer at Everts Arena has arranged to bring together Claude Swindell, of Lincoln, Neb., the world's lightweight champion against Chuck Nelson, of Pittsburgh, Penn., a Pennsylvania railroad champ. Both of these men are "the last word" in mat scrappers and are expected to put on one of the best matches ever seen here. Nelson appeared at Evert's arena this summer and the fans who saw him like his wares.

SEMI IS GOOD

The semi-final will feature Hal Spang of Logan and Cyprie Joe Evans of Portsmouth. Almost every fan in the city is acquainted with the wrestling art of the latter and Spang is said to be just as good. This is also expected to be a good match.

The other go brings together Ray Phillips of Columbus and Lou Evans of Portsmouth. This also will be a lively scrap.

This is a benefit show for the legion to aid in the local Howard Hall post membership drive. Members are selling tickets at 75 cents for downstairs and 50 cents in the gallery. Regular price for children is 10 cents.

A large crowd is expected to attend.

LANGE'S TEAM PLEASED WITH SEASON MARKS

Untied and Undefeated Is Record of Muskingum College in 1931 Season.

NEW CONCORD, Nov. 17.—Muskingum college completed its 1931 football season Saturday with a defeat or a tie game. Eight contests were one and a total of 138 points were scored against opponents 12. It is the second perfect grid record attained by Muskingum under the coaching of W. F. (Bill) Lange; his 1926 team having turned in a string of nine victories.

The season's record give Muskingum the championship title in the Ohio Conference, four teams in that circuit, Mount Union, Heidelberg, Wooster and Ashland, having lost to the Muskies. Scores of the eight Muskingum victories were: Wilmington, 12-0; Findlay, 21-0; Mount Union, 7-0; Bethany, 19-6; Heidelberg, 21-6; Cincinnati, 15-0; Wooster, 19-0; Ashland, 24-0.

Starting the season with but five lettermen, no particular stars, and a light-weight backfield, Coach Lange was faced with one of the most difficult problems of his nine years at Muskingum. He saw hope for success in the Knute Rockne system of play and changed over from the Warner style. The year has been a real coaching achievement and has demonstrated the value of a splendid team spirit over the show of individual players.

Seven backfield men have shared in the scoring, only one of them having been a letterman. Melhorn, playing his first year as fullback, finished highpoint man with 42 points from seven touchdowns through the line. Zeyher, quarterback, who had been a two year halfback, made a great last year showing with four touch downs, two field goals, and four extra points by placekicks, for 34 points. Other scoring were: Furbay, 24; Mariner, 12; Anderson 12; Semon, 8; and Smith 6.

Out standing linemen of the year were Hawthorne, guard, and Fergy, tackle, who played great football on the forward wall, and were largely responsible for Muskingum's goal line not being crossed from scrimmage all season, an intercepted pass and a blocked punt having yielded the two scores.

Protecting roses, evergreens, and perennials with mulches helps to insure attractive flower gardens the following spring. From 4 to 6 inches of straw manure makes a good mulch and should be applied the latter part of November or early December.

Ready for Yale-Harvard 50th Clash

When the sons of Old Eli march to Cambridge on November 21 to do battle with their traditional gridiron foes, the warrior brood of John Harvard, it will mark the fiftieth occasion when young men under the standards of Crimson and Blue have clashed in combat. Since 1875 rivalry for football supremacy has been keen between the two great varieties, and, if anything, it is keener today than ever. This year's battle will lack none of the rivalry that has marked every meeting between the two. Yale still smarts from the sting of last season's defeat, when the Crimson piled up a 13-0 score.

Conklin's Sport Sparks

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK Football is the latest sport at Sing Sing Prison and two strong teams have been organized. They were called the "Black" team and the "White" team, but after the first scrimmage both were black and blue.

The fullback of the white team is a triple-threat man. He can pick a lock, climb up a drain-pipe or crack a safe with equal facility.

The rock pile has been replaced by a pile of twenty-two men fighting over a football. And the prisoner's song now is "Rah, Rah, Rah!"

The quarterback of the white team is a bank cashier up for embezzlement. He's so handy with figures that he learned all the signals in five minutes.

One of the boys on the white team dodged his way 90 yards to a touchdown the other day, but when he reached the last chalk line he discovered that Pichpocket Pete, of the rival squad, had taken the ball away from him in midfield and had scored a touchdown for the other side.

They say Willie Lightfinger of the black squad can pick his holes better than any man on the outfit. He ought to—he picked holes in the best safes in New York before they got him.

Making a gain through guard is easy for the fullback of the white squad. He bowled over six guards two years ago, when he almost got away from the Big House.

The quarterback on the black team was running for a touchdown last week when the referee blew his whistle. The quarterback hollered "Cheese it, the cops," dropped the ball, and ran off the field.

Captain of one team asked for time out. "How much time?" quoth the referee. "Twenty years, please," was the reply.

One tackle was unabashed when penalized fifteen yards for unnecessary roughness. In 1928 he got fifteen years for the same thing.

The convicts want to play the New York police team at Yankee Stadium, the proceeds to go to the unemployed. "It would pack the park," they say. And how!

Only trouble would be that instead of tackling the convict backs, the cops probably would knock them cold with nightsticks, just from force of habit.

And when told by the coach to go to the showers, one of the Sing Sing boys might keep right on going and catch the next train to Hot Springs.

HIGHWAYS USED 28,039 MEN
HARRISBURG, Pa.—Construction of State highways has given employment to 28,039 men, the State Highway Department announces. Maintenance forces of the department employed 24,552 men while the others were engaged in work for contractors. Twenty-one hundred miles of highways have been completed during the 1931 construction season.

HOG PRODUCERS SHOULD BE ON GUARD TO MAKE PROFIT

Hog prices reached the lowest level since in the spring of 1908, during the first week in November. After sharp declines during September, prices remained steady during the first three weeks of October but slipped again during the two following weeks.

The average at Chicago for the week of November 2nd was $4.65 with the daily top arranging from $4.80 on Tuesday to $5.20 on Saturday. The greatest price declines were on the heavy hogs, with the result that the price spread between heavy and light weight hogs became extremely narrow. Although heavy hogs continued to sell at a premium over the light weights, the price spread during the first week of November was only 25 cents per 100 pound weight as compared to 45 cents 4 weeks earlier.

It is encouraging however, that with the market movement on the new crop of hogs, that slaughter supplies during October increased seasonally and were larger than those of one year ago and were the third largest for the month of October.

Federally hog slaughter last month, amounted to 3,772,000 head, was 8 percent larger than in October last year. The recent advance in corn prices accompanied in decline of hog prices, has changed the relationship between hogs and corn from one which was very favorable for feeding to one which is below average. The hog corn ration based on Chicago prices was reduced from 13.8 during the second week of October to 11.0 last week. The average ratio for November during the last 10 years was 11.6.

The seasonal increase in supplies accompanied with unseasonably warm weather has reacted in a price disadvantage to the pork producer. Mark declined occurred in all commercial pork cuts, the sharpest reductions were on light loins which sold last week at $7.50 below the average for five weeks earlier.

Packers are also reluctant to stock the normal amount of pork on account of present conditions and are moving both, cured and fresh pork into the current consumption channels.

Pork producers of Ohio however, have been in a better advantage from the standpoint of prices than has the pork producer of any other important belt state. The Ohio farm price on hogs on October 15th was reported at $5.00 per hundred or 30 cents per hundred above the United States price.

Hog Raisers may receive profits through their hog feeding enterprises through careful observation of economic feeding practices, supplementing their grain with tankage and mineral and through the cooperative merchandising of their finished hogs.

INDIANA ONLY TEAM TO BEAT OHIO BOBCATS IN 3 SEASONS

Twenty-five Victories, One Tie and One Defeat Sustained Since Beginning of 1929 Season When Indiana Was Trounced 18-0; Peden and Trautwein Praised By Backers of School.

ATHENS.—After a season of hard campaigning the Ohio University Bobcats can sit back now in the security of a third consecutive Buckeye Conference championship. By defeating Miami Saturday the Bobcats completed their third season of defending the title.

Since the fall of 1929, Ohio University football teams have won 25 games, tied, and lost one. They started the winning streak by an 18-0 victory over Indiana University three years ago. It was Indiana that broke the succession when the Big Ten eleven squeezed a 7-6 decision from the Bobcats in the opening game of this season. West Liberty last year succeeded in holding Ohio to 13-13 tie.

Ohio University has been forced to fight hard to hold its championship position this year, for every team in the conference, remembering defeats in the past, has been pointing for the Bobcats. Especially was this evident in the game with Cincinnati and Miami, who threatened the Ohio team by playing by far their best ball of the season.

Probably the one factor most responsible for the success of the Bobcats is the coaching of Don Peden, young mentor whose entire career has been built at Ohio University. He left the University of Illinois in 1923 and came directly to Ohio University, where he has been head coach ever since.

The Bobcats are scheduled to take on Navy next year at Annapolis. The 1932 season will open with Indiana University at Bloomington.

Notre Dame-Southern California and Harvard-Yale Biggest In Country.

NEW YORK Nov. 17.—Notre Dame versus Southern California at South Bend and Harvard against Yale at Cambridge are two football games on this week's menu that stand out like caviar prices at a New York "gyp" joint.

And with the chances of being twice wrong and doubly damned, we like Notre Dame and Harvard.

Howard Jones' Trojans are trudging half way across the continent to meet the Irish on their home grounds and the long trek is not going to add to the physical condition of the invaders, who probably in the matter of sheer brawn equal the 1931 galloping Centaurs.

In view of the sun kissed gentlemen's record since their defeat by St. Mary's, one might as well cast out that early season upset and class them generally as good as the Ramblers, despite the fact the Irish have a better record. Notre Dame's smashing defeat of Indiana, a team that almost nipped Northwestern, coupled with an emphatic crushing of Pitt, the squad that beat Army, make the Nomads look a little better on paper, but Southern California's impressive record includes defeat of California, Stanford, Oregon, Oregon State and Washington State.

FLIES SENT TO AUSTRALIA
MONTREAL, Que.—An army of Canadian flies, the pride of Canada's insect world, have been sent to Australia to wage war on the sugar cane borer, an insect which is causing considerable damage in the sugar plantations near Brisbane. The fly lays its eggs on the grub, which becomes the unwilling incubator and eventually the source of food for the fly's offspring, which is a small worm. This results in the death of the grub, and the worm, having attained robust maturity, is metamorphosed into a fly. This cycle is repeated, much to the annoyance and discomfort of succeeding generations of grubs.

AT 100, SHE WANTS TO FLY
ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y.—On her 100th birthday Mrs. Tony of Brooklyn expressed a desire to take an airplane ride over New York. Lieutenant

G. Ray Cullman, hearing about it, invited her to make the trip. Illness, however, overcame her before she could accept the offer. In her letter to the young lieutenant, she wrote: "Isn't it lovely to know that at 100 years of age I am still able to encourage a dashing young man to invite me out for a ride."

POOR FUNDS NOT FOR DOG
WARSAW, Ind.—A man receiving county poor relief here has been discovered to have been buying a quart of milk daily for his dog. Trustee Harvey McCleary learned of this use of Wayne-town funds. Seventeen township trustees then met and voted that "worthy poor" is not to be construed in Kosciusko-co to include dogs or the car which may be an important part of the family. The trustees entered into an agreement not to advance any relief to persons owning dogs or automobiles.

In Captain Barry Wood and John Crickard the Crimson have an ideal duo that has given a great account of itself in every game this season. Speculation is rife as to the outcome of the clash between the generalship of Wood and that of Yale's mighty atom, Captain Albie Booth, hailed as one of the great geniuses of the gridiron. Another Blue threat is Tom Taylor, who has proved himself a ball-carrier of sterling worth. So if you are not an alumnus of either school, take your choice—Crimson or Blue.

A FACULTY RECORD
SELINGSGROVE, Pa.—Six members of the faculty of Susquehanna University here enjoy what they believe is the unusual distinction of having served the institution for more than a quarter of a century each. Dr. Thomas C. Houts has the longest service, 47 years. Dr. John I. Woodruff has been on the faculty 40 years. Dr. George E. Fisher and Dr. H. A. Allison have been at Susquehanna 36 years each; Dr. Franklin P. Manhart has been dean of the theological school for 27 years, and Prof. E. M. Brungart has the same length of service.

G. Ray Cullman, hearing about it, invited her to make the trip. Illness, however, overcame her before she could accept the offer. Across Friendly Counters

NO DOUBT you can remember the general storekeeper in some country village. A call on him was an experience in pleasant human relationship, in honesty and neighborliness. He discussed politics and crops with vigor and shrewdness. He told the truth about groceries and dress goods. His was a friendly counter, a comfortable place to trade.

But the fact is that today in towns and villages and cities everywhere hundreds of thousands of counters are honest and friendly in a way his could never be. They offer advertised merchandise! A manufacturer stands sponsor for this merchandise. On it he has put his name and brand. So sure is he of its usefulness, its purity and correct weight, or size, or strength, or delicacy, that he talks to you about it on the pages of magazines and newspapers.

From coast to coast you can buy his product with confidence. Wherever you find it, and whoever sells it, you have the assurance that its quality will be what you expect and that the price you pay is fair.

In your home town and wherever you travel on business or pleasure, you may trade at friendly counters! You may buy advertised merchandise!

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

by Edson R. White Shawnee, Okla.

THAT no city is immune from hard knocks. If a city has a well developed community spirit, hard knocks just spur it on to greater achievements.

If it has a few narrow gauged citizens, it should pass on and forget them. If nobody cared, a city wouldn't last long.

A city where the people care is always a progressive city. A city where the people contribute generously of their time and money to help it on its way always becomes a greater city.

A city should not expect something for nothing; they won't get it.

A waiting policy never brought any new industries. If they are worth having, they are worth going after.

SOME CITIES ARE ALWAYS GOING TO DO SOMETHING. NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT—GET SOMETHING DONE.

Astrology and Wealth

On May 10, 1930, in this vicinity, two boys were born. One was born at exactly 1:23 a. m. and the other at 5:07 a. m. What a difference these few minutes will make in the financial affairs of these boys.

The one born at 1:23 a. m. will make money easily, most of it by investments and banking. He will not be easily influenced by others, will be able to save a great part of his earnings and will reach a high position in the business world.

The other boy born only three hours and forty-four minutes later will also make money, but will be inclined to spend it too freely for his own good. He will listen to the advice of his associates in business and live to regret it many times. It is likely that he will make and lose several fortunes if his parents do not do all in their power to eradicate the tendency to spend and to invest in new schemes.

Therein lies the value of astrological advice. To know ourselves as others know us; to learn our inherent weaknesses and to so govern our lives as to overcome these things.

Following are some dates and hours of birth which are exceptionally fortunate for all those born at those times. The time is Eastern standard.

1929
May 9th and 10th—Between 2:40 a. m. and 4:10 a. m.
October 12th and 13th—Between 6:09 p. m. and 7:25 p. m.

1930
June 21st—Between 2:27 a. m.

and 3:30 a. m.
November 11th—Between 6:40 p. m. and 8:00 p. m.

1931
March 2nd and 3rd—Between 10:38 a. m. and noon.
May 3rd—Between 6:58 and 8:11 a. m.

1932
April 2nd—Between 10:52 a. m. and noon.
August 25th and 26th—Between 2:52 a. m. and 4:23 a. m.

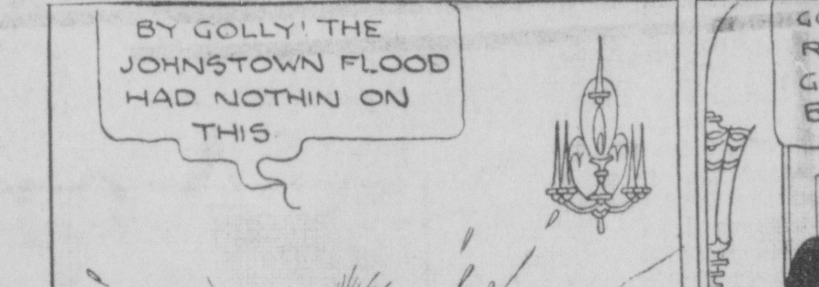

There are some other fortunate birth periods in these years but time and space forbid further comment.

over one and one-fourth million dollars ($1,278,986) because as a Government organization it pays no ad valorem taxes on its physical property, and no income taxes, nor is there any provision for any return on its investment of about twenty-four millions ($24,000,000).

"When you ship by rail," the speaker said, "there is only one charge and that is the amount of your freight bill, but when you use certain other forms of transportation you pay part of the cost when you pay your freight bill and the remainder when you pay your taxes. And although you are located far inland and may have never used the Government Barge Line on the Mississippi River, you are paying your share of the loss just the same. That is providing of course that you pay your taxes."

"In addition to the inland Waterways, we have several other competitors. You are all familiar with them, but in passing I will mention some of them: Pipe lines, airplanes, busses and trucks."

"All the railroads ask is that the terms of competition shall be fair, and that whatever is done about transportation should be done to improve it, not impair or destroy it."

The maximum tonnage of an N. & W. train through Circleville is 9,600 tons. Just think how many trucks it takes to transport that amount, then multiply it by the number of trains and then imagine how crowded your streets would be," he continued.

"The supreme test must always be the best interest of the public and I think the public is in the long run a good judge of its own interests."

"The railroads are coming back into their own."

"It is true that earnings are off and there are a lot of empty cars awaiting loads, but there is a good reason for some of those cars being empty. In other words, if freight cars were not loaded, transported and unloaded as fast as they are, they would be 12 years old, 50 per cent more freight cars would be required. And wouldn't that be some shortage if we didn't have them," he closed.

"It is true that earnings are off and there are a lot of empty cars awaiting loads, but there is a good reason for some of those cars being empty. In other words, if freight cars were not loaded, transported and unloaded as fast as they are, they would be 12 years old, 50 per cent more freight cars would be required. And wouldn't that be some shortage if we didn't have them," he closed.

MANY CITIES BEGIN DRIVES

Battle Against Poverty In State Begin With Community Drives.

By International News Service
The battle against poverty was being continued relentlessly in numerous cities throughout Ohio today staging vigorous Community Chest drives.

Cleveland led the way with probably the largest single contribution—$150,000 from the estate of the late Samuel Mather, ore and steel magnate. Pledges of the first day totaled $840,357 in a drive for $5,650,000.

Columbus was waging a campaign for $897,000 and Dayton and Athens were also in the midst of drives. Hoping to raise $75,000.

Lorain opens its campaign tonight. Ashland workers were pressing to top a $30,000 goal. Conneaut's campaign is for $10,650. Medina, with a $9,000 goal, has already subscribed $2,369.

TRANSFORMATIONS

Although we have not yet reached the half century mark, we have seen many transformations, including those that are worn by the ladies. But the transformations that we have in mind are those that have happened in our homes, especially the kitchen.

It's only a few years since "you good old farmer friends of mine," as "Smiling" Ed. McConnell says over the radio, had your meals prepared on a large black (or rather it was burned red) range that added no beauty to the kitchen. It was the only finish that was known for coal ranges in those days.

And then Style in the Kitchen came along and the beautifully colored ranges were quite the thing. They were more easily cleaned, cost but a trifle more, and made the housewife's office look like a cozy nook. And why shouldn't her "office" be cheerful? Don't she spend more of her time in it than in any other room in the house?

We've handled some beautiful ranges in our business experience of more than 15 years, but the top notcher arrived last week. When it comes to beauty, it's a hum-dinger. And when it comes to durability, we don't see how it could be worn out. Besides, it's making a firm that has won their laurels by producing the best in cooking and heating stoves for the past 80 years. Yes, it's an Estate, and its name is "The Heatrola Range."

It's now on display in our store and we invite you to drop in and look it over.

And another family will begin to use our Pyrofax Gas in a few days! They have purchased a gas range that has a coal fire-box in it. With this range, this family can heat their kitchen, heat the water in their water-system, do some cooking over a coal fire, cook with gas, bake with gas in an insulated and heat-controlled oven. In our judgment, this is the ideal Pyrofax gas range for country homes. Talk about transformations— isn't it going some when a family can have a gas range, although living miles from the nearest gas main? It can be done.

(It might have happened at the Cliftona or the Grand.)

During an Oriental vaudeville act some incense was released to add "air" to the act. "Usher," complained the pompous man in the aisle seat, "I smell punk." "That's all right," whispered the usher, "just sit where you are and I won't put anyone near you."

If a certain employee of The Circleville Oil Company is late for work from now on it'll be because he's buried deep in the hay (so to speak). The reason is this, he had a new Stearns & Foster inner-spring mattress sent out to his home. Did YOU ever spend a night on one of those spring filled mattresses? Well, all we have to say is, if you want the REST OF YOUR LIFE, get one from us. We have them from $15.95 up to $43.50.

Because we could not guarantee to warm the floors with a common garden variety of a circulating heater a gentleman from out near Kinderhook refused to purchase the heater, and we sold him a real, honest-to-gosh, Estate Heatrola. Yes, indeed, we guarantee that the floor at the base of a Heatrola will be warm. We also claim that we'll deliver more heat from the fuel if it is burned in a genuine Estate Heatrola. These are pretty broad claims, but we're willing to be put on the carpet and made to prove them.

A shipment of the prettiest mirrors that it has ever been our privilege to unpack has just been received by this store. Mirrors for the hall—mirrors for the living room—mirrors for the dining room—and just common kitchen mirrors—all priced at a figure that is far below what they have carried in past years.

There's a young man up in the north end of the city that is sitting "high" these days. Yes, he's using a high-chair for the first time, and it's a dandy, too. The chair is enameled in a beautiful ivory, trimmed with a soft shade of green, and has an ivory enameled tray for his plate.

The mention of "ivory and green" reminds us that a drop-leaf breakfast set in these colors was delivered last week to a customer in the south end of the city. Yes, and one of those dandy day beds, one with coil springs, was sent along to the same house.

White man's stolen the red man's land.

Where Lo once was, he ain't; But the college youth retains his yell.

And the flapper has his paint.

It'll soon be Thanksgiving Day. Are you prepared for the family gathering? How about a new dining room suite? Why not, they're priced so low that you'll be surprised to find them at such low prices. Just think of an English Oak, 8-piece, refectory table, for only $118.75! Walnut suites for even less money.

Transportation

over one and one-fourth million dollars ($1,278,986) because as a Government organization it pays no ad valorem taxes on its physical property, and no income taxes, nor is there any provision for any return on its investment of about twenty-four millions ($24,000,000).

"When you ship by rail," the speaker said, "there is only one charge and that is the amount of your freight bill, but when you use certain other forms of transportation you pay part of the cost when you pay your freight bill and the remainder when you pay your taxes. And although you are located far inland and may have never used the Government Barge Line on the Mississippi River, you are paying your share of the loss just the same. That is providing of course that you pay your taxes."

OTHER COMPETITORS

"In addition to the Inland Waterways, we have several other competitors. You are all familiar with them, but in passing I will mention some of them: Pipe lines, airplanes, busses and trucks."

"All the railroads ask is that the terms of competition shall be fair, and that whatever is done about transportation should be done to improve it, not impair or destroy it."

The maximum tonnage of an N. & W. train through Circleville is 9,600 tons. Just think how many trucks it takes to transport that amount, then multiply it by the number of trains and then imagine how crowded your streets would be," he continued.

"The supreme test must always be the best interest of the public and I think the public is in the long run a good judge of its own interests."

"The railroads are coming back into their own."

"It is true that earnings are off and there are a lot of empty cars awaiting loads, but there is a good reason for some of those cars being empty. In other words, if freight cars were not loaded, transported and unloaded any faster today than they were 12 years ago, 50 per cent more freight cars would be required. And wouldn't that be some shortage if we didn't have them," he closed.

HUNT GIRL TAKEN BY CRAZED BROTHER

LIVONIA, Ind., Nov. 17.—Search for 12-year-old Cora Hunt, kidnaped from school last Thursday by her demented brother, Bill, 27, spread throughout southern Indiana today, as the populace grew aroused over the possible fate of the girl at the hands of the man who is a six-time ex-convict.

A sinister note was given the search today by the discovery of the girl's school satchel in a cemetery near here. The frantic parents, were almost certain their daughter had been slain. Sheriff Trinkle said the man had tried twice to shoot his mother, Mrs. Lanie Hunt, last week.

TRACE OF MISSING GIRL IS REPORTED

WELLESLEY, Mass., Nov. 17.—Search for Miss Rosemary Pamela Gilding, missing seventeen-year-old daughter of a London banker, continued with renewed vigor today following discovery that yesterday she was in a hotel at Springfield, Mass.

Discovery that Miss Gilding had been in Springfield and was last seen hurrying in a taxicab to the railroad station in time for the 10:30 a. m. train for New York, deepened the mystery surrounding her flight.
